Although the closer zoo is far away, you can pay tribute to the fascinating nature of the elephant by folding your reply. With a single sheet of paper and some key bending techniques, you can create an adorable origami elephant to be displayed on a bookshelf, add to a handmade card, or incorporate in a furniture of Zoo-themed origami. Your origami elephant should be made from a square origam paper sheet. If you do not have an origami paper easily available, you can cut a construction paper square or copy the paper to be used. A square that is 8 inches is a good size to start. The gray card makes the elephant with a more realistic appearance, but you can also bend a more decorative version using the molded paper. Related articles Although this is one of the easiest models requires a good understanding of bending origami bending techniques. The first step in this project is to make a square base. A square base, also called a preliminary base, is a common origami base form. To start, place your card on the table with the colored side face up. Fold a diagonal one. Release. Fold a middle of the other diagonal. Release. Turn the card upside down. Bend to half horizontally. Release. Fold to half vertically. Release. Use the folds you did to compress the paper in a square shape bringing the first three corners to the bottom of the paper to make your origami elephant, you will need to transform the square base into a bird base. A bird base is a square base plus two folds petals. It is the same basic form used to make the popular origami crane. To do this, bend the left and right sides of the square base to satisfy the central vertical fold. Fold the upper downward level so as to be flush with the horizontal border created by the previous two parts. Open your card so you come back to the original square basic position. Open the flap and use the three guide stones you have just done to press the flat paper. Flip the paper and repeat this process to complete the bird base. Fold the upper flap of your bird base. Turn the card upside down. Squash folks lower left and right until a four-point shape form. This starts the legs of your origami elephant. Fold the left and right points to half road to the vertical center. Fold the upper and lower part of each side halfway towards its central horizontal fold. Turn the paper. Fold the lower focus upwards. This flap will become the elephant ears. Turn on the paper in the original position. Bend your left leg and right in half horizontally, then fold in half the entire model of the long road. Make an internal reverse fold to form the rear legs. Make a second reverse fold to flatten your legs. (The front legs of your finished elephant will be separated, but the back two legs are together. If this bows you, make a small cut the back of the model to separate your legs.) Form your head with an internal fold forward, then Fold the rest with one or two more inside pleats in reverse near the tip to finish the elephant trunk. If you are ready for a more advanced project, this Origami Bali video tutorial shows a very realistic aspect model. The subsequent passages of the project are quite detailed, so you may need to pause and play the video a few times to understand what is done. The origami elephant requires a bit of practice to bend accurately, so don't discourage if your first attempts are less perfect. When you master this model, you'll be fine to be able to bend an entire zoo full of animals Á © 2021 Lovetoknow Media. All rights reserved. These instructions will show you how to bend an easy origami elephant. You will have to do two small cuts with scissors though. If you just start with the fold of the card, we recommend checking our guide to our beginner, who will teach you all the folds and basic techniques. What did you think of this elephant origami? Let us know in the comments! Original model created on 01/11/2015 - Published 11/16/2015 This elephant head is an original model that I created for a challenge of creating origami on the French origami Plage de Papier site. The theme was "hijacking the flower Lilly". And in fact, this elephant face was born in a lilly flower! This elephant model has only one head and no body, but can endure himself. And the head is complete with huge elephant ears, two elephant fangs and, of course, an elephant trunk! To make an elephant head in origami, please follow the instructions from this video on YouTube: Share this elephant's head with your friends! 1. To fold the elephant's head, you must first bend a lilly flower! 2. Start with a square paper sheet. Put the face colored at the top. 3. Fold and open along the two diagonals. 4. Rotate the model. 5. Fold and open horizontally and vertically. 6. Fold all the folds you did together. Put the à €
