I will say that the customer service is very good because I received a response in less than five minutes however it's been a full day and there has been no resolution to this issue. I don't think that it should take this long for the problem to be solved. I just hope that bug that's causing it can get resolved. We will appreciate it if you can contact our support team at support@promo.com and we will help you with any issues either functional or financial. Every since I got the $100/mo subscription... I thought it was my phone and I even updated the app but it still acting weird. I personally believe that it's a marketing tactic to get you to purchase the "full service" of at least $100/mo. Then all of a sudden the app begins to crash. Other than that it's great, but the sneaky way they make you have to buy a more expensive version before it starts to work is not integral business practices #UnsatisfiedCustomer Dear dynamitee, We are very sorry to hear about your experience.
