There are many sight word lists circulating today. The most prominent lists were published separately by two PhD’s, Dolch and Fry. Dolch’s sight word list contains 220 service words. He categorized these words into the following five groups: pre-primer, primer, first, second and third. Dolch intentionally excluded nouns from this list. Fry created a list containing the most common words in English. The first 100 words make up over 50% of all written material. His list contains 1,000 words, the table above includes the first 225. If they do not have one readily available, consider using the lists below to assist your child in obtaining a sight word vocabulary. Our kindergarten curriculum identified 25 sight words that a child should automatically recognize by the end of kindergarten. They also provided additional words for a child who mastered the first list of sight words. By the end of first grade, a child should automatically recognize and correctly spell sight words. Sight words are no longer in vogue; the terminology changes from sight words to wall words. These words are typically displayed on a wall, students should spell these words correctly.
